"To Be A Better Horseman" Award

In Memory of Chad Holland

The award "To Be a Better Horseman" is in memory of Chad Holland.

Chad believed that being a good horseman was an important factor in the communication between the person and a horse. He believed in the importance of giving the horse a good experience the first-time you interacted with them, gaining their trust and confidence. It was all about making a better world for horse and man. Chad was a contributing individual in bringing Ray Hunt horse breaking methods to this country. Ray Hunt held nine clinics at the Holland Ranch ranging from colt starting to horsemanship classes. All clinics were filled with participants.

Chad believed that whether you were in the rodeo arena, show world, breaking a colt or working cattle on the ranch horseback, you need to communicate with your horse and understand the feel the horse is giving you. As a horseman himself, he roped with the best, showed several AQHA Champions and spent countless hours horseback on the ranch.

HELP HORSES AND THEIR HUMANS REACH THEIR POTENTIAL BY WORKING TOGETHER

The not-for-profit Montana Center for Horsemanship (MCH) is the first and only educational equine center in the United States to focus exclusively on 'Natural Horsemanship'—a philosophy that's based on understanding horse behavior, and bridging the gap between natural and conventional training to provide a stronger, more rewarding foundation for riding, working, and interacting.

Thanks to a unique partnership between MCH and the University of Montana Western, professional and amateur horsemen and horsewomen are brought together to improve and expand horsemanship in the broadest sense of the word.

MCH is guided by several fundamental objectives: to help individuals achieve personal and professional success in the equine industry; to enable horses to learn more effectively and find more 'horse happiness' through a specialized program; to energize the community as a whole; and to perpetuate a fundamental tradition of the American West.

Eric Hoffmann is the Head Instructor at La Cense Montana. He has taught Natural Horsemanship classes at Montana Western since 2008. In his classes, Hoffmann teaches his students the importance of getting your horses to work more willingly in order to accomplish a task or job. A student of Hoffmann's will gain confidence and knowledge that equips individuals for a future career in the equine industry. Hoffmann holds an A.A.S. in Equine Management and Training from Laramie County Community College. He earned a Bachelor of Science in Agriculture Education from the University of Wyoming and also received a Master's degree in Agriculture Education from Montana State University.

Robert Chesterfield is an Instructor at La Cense Montana and has taught Natural Horsemanship classes at Montana Western since 2016. Robert brings a unique approach and perspective to his classes. He graduated from Montana Western with a Bachelor's degree in Natural Horsemanship and has the ability to help students gain the most they can from their Natural Horsemanship classes. In the past Robert had spent years working on ranches and starting colts. Robert's attention to detail will enable students to develop and refine a solid foundation in their horsemanship.

Melanie South is our newest horsemanship instructor. She graduated from UMW with a Bachelor's Degree in Natural Horsemanship with a Business minor and a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration with an Equine Management minor. Melanie grew up riding horses and has always enjoyed giving horsemanship lessons and working with the public. She strives to teach her student's through leading by example and encourages her students to learn from failures with perseverance.

Ola "Olie" Else has been involved with the Equine and Natural Horsemanship Program since its inception and first classes in 2000. Else served as UMW's Rodeo Coach and Faculty Advisor for over thirty years and was named the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association Coach of the year in 2004 & 2018. Olie is the only woman that has ever won the award. She was inducted in the Montana Pro Rodeo Hall and Wall of Fame in 2018 and was inducted into the 2019 Montana Cowboy Hall of Fame. Olie is the campus liaison for the MCH and La Cense Montana. Else meets with new recruits and is the primary advisor for Natural Horsemanship students. She is passionate about agriculture.

Dr. Layne Carlson has been teaching Equine Science classes at UMW since 2009. Prior to this, he owned and operated a busy three veterinarian mixed animal practice in Southwestern Montana for many years. Dr. Carlson brings real life experience to the classroom and provides "hands on" opportunities for the students.

His students perform necropsies, palpate and artificially inseminate a mare, learn about equine dentistry, perform lameness exams and practice equine bandage application along with many other procedures applicable in the equine world.

Dr. Megan Kelly joined the Western Equine Studies Program in 2015. She graduated from Washington State University's College of Veterinary Medicine in 2010. Dr. Kelly was an Associate Veterinarian for 5 years in equine private practice before moving to Dillon. In the classroom, she uses her equine veterinary practice knowledge to help UM Western students be prepared for the real-world challenges in the horse industry. Dr. Kelly is a Montana native, and enjoys backcountry horseback riding and mountain lake fishing.
